

RhodeCode CE/EE - Bug #5482

Changing a repo's 'Remote pull uri' in its Settings fails with 'No repo type specified'

29.06.2018 14:23 - Peter Colledge

Status:	Resolved	Start date:	26.06.2018
Priority:	Normal	Due date:
Assignee:		% Done:	0%
Category:		Estimated time:	0.00 hour
Target version:	v4.13	Spent time:	0.00 hour
Sorting:		Affected Version:	v4.12
Commit Number:

Description

Presumed fix:

```
--- rhodecode/model/validation_schema/validators.py.old 2018-06-29 13:17:56.257500455 +0100
+++ rhodecode/model/validation_schema/validators.py 2018-06-29 10:57:34.197339295 +0100
@@ -89,9 +93,9 @@
     # initially check if it's at least the proper URL
     # or does it pass basic auth

-     MercurialRepository.check_url(url, config)
+     return MercurialRepository.check_url(url, config) elif 'svn+http' in url[:8]: # svn->hg import
-     SubversionRepository.check_url(url, config)
+     return SubversionRepository.check_url(url, config) elif 'git+http' in url[:8]: # git->hg import raise NotImplementedError()
     else:
@@ -106,7 +110,7 @@
     if 'http' in url[:4]:
         # initially check if it's at least the proper URL
         # or does it pass basic auth
-     GitRepository.check_url(url, config)
+     return GitRepository.check_url(url, config) elif 'svn+http' in url[:8]: # svn->git import
         raise NotImplementedError()
     elif 'hg+http' in url[:8]: # hg->git import
```

History

#1 - 29.06.2018 21:55 - Marcin Kuzminski [staff]

- Target version set to v4.13

Thanks for reporting this, it been already fixed in default, but we didn't backport this to stable. We're now working on 4.12.4 release which will address this, and one more found problem.

Best

#2 - 31.10.2018 08:37 - Daniel D

- Status changed from New to Resolved